Bad Eggs.

Seated in a dark, cool cellar, a lighted candle in one hand, three eggs in the other, the egg candler talked. "No egg is unsalable," said he. "You can sell an egg when there's nothing left of it but the shell. Who buys it then? The kid glove maker. He beats his kids soft in a yolk bath, and the ripper that great foaming yellow bath is the more joyously the kid glove maker splashes about in it. Here's a half dozen fresh broken, O. K. but for the shells. The confectioners'll take 'em. This couple is what you might call fair—what your grocer would term 'fresh'; not 'new laid' nor 'best fresh'—only 'fresh.' Such eggs you could stand in a Spanish omelet, but not boiled. We'll split them and sell the yolks to low class bakers and the whites to papermakers for sizing."

Easily Pleased.

If you wish to make a Baganda perfectly happy, all you need to do is to say, "Way wally," which means a sort of supremely earnest "Well done." The moment this talismanic expression has left your lips the native to whom it is addressed will probably fall on his knees, and, clasping his two hands together, will sway them from side to side as if he were playing a concertina, while all the time his face beams with a most benignant and compulsive smile, and he purrs "A-o, a-o, a-o," as much as to say, "My cup of joy is overflowing."—Winston Churchill in Strand Magazine.

Fruitful Comparison.

"That girl is a peach," enthusiastically remarked a spectator. "Yes," said another, "and she is the apple of her father's eye." "She and young Binks would make a fine pair," suggested a third. "But," objected another in the group, "a fellow like Binks would find her something of a lemon in the garden of love."

The cynical bystander who had been listening butted in at this point. "I don't know the young lady," he said dryly, "but she seems to be very fruitful in her resources."—Baltimore American.

A Person to Be Avoided.

"Palanquin is certainly a man to avoid. People have told me stories about him which are not edifying." "Really? You do well to tell me, for I need not now give him back the money he loaned me."—Paris Figaro.

Getting Desperate.

Dolly—There's Miss Oldgirl. She used to say she would never marry until she got an excellent proposal. May—And now? Dolly—Oh, now she's dropped the "excellent."—Illustrated Bits.

A Noisy Caucus.

"Papa, will you tell me one thing?" "Yes, my son." "If crows were to hold a meeting and swear at one another, would that be what they call a caw-cuss?"

LOOKING BACKWARD.

What Is the Earliest Event in Life You Can Remember?

"I can remember back to my fourth year," said a physician. "I was four during the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876, and I remember two Centennial scenes well. One was a great room full of brass band instruments—horns so big and yellow and shiny that they delighted me. I remember, too, a Turkish coffee room. My father took me into this room. Turks in native dress served the coffee. I liked the place at first; then I saw that it was noisy. The native waiters shouted horribly. I was frightened. I was on the point of tears, but whether I cried or not I can't tell you."

"I can remember back to the time when I was three," said a lawyer. "At the age of three my family took me to Cape May. I saw my father out in the water. He laughed and held out his arms to me, and, all dressed, I ran into the sea to him."

"All of us," said a psychologist, "can remember back to our fourth year. Some of us can even remember back to the second year. It would make an interesting article, a compilation of the earliest memories of a lot of people. The trouble, as a rule, is to fix the date of these memories, so as to be sure of our age at the time."—Pittsburg Press.

PUNCTUATION.

Originated by Aristophanes and Revived by Charlemagne.

Punctuation by means of stops and points, so as to indicate the meaning of sentences and assist the reader to a proper enunciation, is ascribed originally to Aristophanes, a grammarian of Alexandria, Egypt, who lived in the third century B. C. Whatever his system may have been, it was subsequently neglected and forgotten, but was reintroduced by Charlemagne, the various stops and symbols being designed by Warnefried and Aleuin.

The present system of punctuation was introduced in the latter part of the fifteenth century by Aldus Manutius, a Venetian printer, who was responsible for our full stop, colon, semicolon, comma, marks of interrogation and exclamation, parenthesis and dash, hyphen, apostrophe and quotation marks. These were subsequently copied by other printers until their use became universal.

Most ancient languages were innocent of any system of punctuation. In many early manuscripts the letters are placed at equal distances apart, with no connecting link between, even in the matter of spacing, an arrangement which must have rendered reading at sight somewhat difficult.—Chicago News.
